WHEN IS INSURANCE NOT A GOOD BUY?

When the rate is so low, something has to "give" and that may take the form of restrictive clauses, poor service, "hard" settlements or corners that can be cut in many places.

One policy is as good as another until you have a loss and when you do you want good service and a prompt settlement.

That's why most people do business with a local, independent agent.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. Mittie Carter who departed this life one year ago, June 12, 1963 to rest in the joy of her Lord.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain;
To have, to love, and then to part
The years may wipe out many things;
But this they wipe out never—
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.

Two wheat topdressing demonstrations on the farms of B. C. Massey and J. S. Caldwell, Jr. are in process. Moseley has Wakeland variety and Caldwell has Redcoat.

Each demonstration has in addition to the fall fertilizer application, nitrogen applied at five rates. There are three replications of these treatments. Actual nitrogen was applied at the following rates per acre: 1-0lb; 2-20 lb; 3-40 lb; 4-60 lb.s and 5-80 lbs. Interested wheat growers are invited to examine these plots. There are visual differences in the rates of nitrogen.

Reports from other states have indicated that the Redcoat variety has the ability to stand up under heavier rates of nitrogen. If this proves true in Virginia, it would appear that yields could be increased greatly. Several hundred acres of Redcoat wheat were seeded in the county last fall.

Peace Maker

Lesson for June 14, 1964

What can I do for world peace? It is a question most serious - minded persons, young and old, have asked themselves. Too often the answer is, Nothing. I am only one of two hundred million American citizens, and very few of us have the authority or the power to order or to start a war or to stop it. And if we despair of influencing our own nation, what can we do by our individual influence on vast nations like Russia and China? Faced with such simple arithmetic, most persons simply give up. To judge from the actions of the American public, it seems to be the general opinion that "Que sera, sera," what is to be will be, and if we just stop thinking about the problem of war, it will go away. And then someone we know is killed in Viet Nam or in a military base accident . . . and we realize that forgetting all about it never solved any problem.

For All in High Positions

War is one problem which has existed since long before the Bible came to be written. We might expect the Bible to say something about it, and so it does. For one thing, the Biblical pictures of an ideal world are invariably pictures of a world from which war has disappeared. Now perhaps war is inevitable, and so is death. But the inevitability of death does not keep doctors from doing all they can to stave death off from their patients.

The Bible, moreover, makes some suggestions which may seem nonsense to non-Christians, but to Christians they really make sense. First of these is a simple thing: Pray for kings. Paul says and there wasn't a Christian king in the world when Paul wrote this — and for all in high positions, "that we may live in a quiet and peaceable life . . ." If you believe in a real God, "King of Kings," and if you believe in prayer, of course the thing to do is to pray for those whose decisions make war or prevent it. Pray for congressmen (did you ever?), for the President, for the Premier of Russia, the Dictator of Albania, for men in authority all around the world. Don't object to praying for non - Christian leaders; remember that no ruler in Paul's time was a Christian, yet Paul knew it was worth while to pray for them.

Overcome Evil With Good

Governments of every kind reflect the character and the wills of their people, in the long run. A government has to do more or less what the people want and understand, even when a nation's leaders are a bad lot. Now if in every day life the citizens of a country are fond of fights, if human life is cheap, if revenge is the common attitude, then you may expect that country's actions to reflect the national character. This holds for America quite as much as for any other nation. So Paul's directive, to overcome evil with good, makes sense.

Peacemaking Institutions

Blessed are the peacemakers, Jesus said. If this is right, then it is right to stand by and support peacemakers. There is space here only for a bare mention of two institutions which in different ways are working for peace, and deserve the support of all Christians. One is political, one religious. The political peace-making body — which has more successes to its credit than most Americans are aware of—is the United Nations Organization, founded with peace as its aim. The other organization is not one but many. It is the combined missionary efforts of all Christian Churches. Alone among all the organizations of men, the churches exist for the purpose of winning all men to God's side, the side of peace. For the Christian, all wars are civil wars, between those who should be brothers.

There were dangers of images in the ordinances unless we relate them to Christ. Many of the symbols used today may be helpful if we keep them in the right focus.

We worship God and serve him when we pass through the preaching, symbols and are brought face to face with God in Christ.

There are to be no images of God, nor any other god before us. Let us worship him in spirit and truth in His home on His day—Sunday. Next week, the third commandment, ". . . No Other Name . . ."

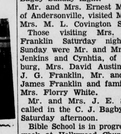
Pastor Speaks



"... No Other Images ..."

If one practices the first commandment . . . "no other gods before me . . ." this one will be more effective. In giving the Ten Sayings God gave many things in them, that would prohibit the copying of the creatures upon which they were written. Maybe this is why God allowed Moses to destroy them; for the tendency is to worship the image rather than the reality behind the image.

It's at this point that tradition gets involved in the process of progress many times. We ought not build anything that would tend to call attention itself. Everything in this world is to be of service value. So our Lord knew what he was doing when he said "no graven images of me".

There are extremities — the Puritans would not even allow photographs of themselves on their churches — but also in Westminster Abbey I am told there are vacant spaces because the people knelt in worship of statues of certain people.

"Thou shalt not bow down before them" strikes deep at the human heart. Man has always wanted aids in worship. Some feel they must have some image. But "God is Spirit" and we who worship must worship in spirit and truth.

Why are images made? They are primarily as a substitute for reality. Any image gives but a limited picture of God and more often it is a distorted one. All love Sallman's work, and the work of the great Rembrandt. But we must view them as limited images of God.

I have a painting, done myself, of the Lovd Supper in my study. It's only a reminder of a very important event in the life of our Christian witness. In no other way is it to be viewed.

God is limitless, eternal and self-existent. When one makes an image of Him, it is often false and misleading.

Any other kind of priesthood other than the priesthood of the believer violates the spirit of this second commandment. Our worship is to be Christ- centered, not priesthood or preacher centered. They have their place, but as fellow - believers. When any other than a direct communication is set up we violate the spirit of this command. I don't object to pictures, unless they call attention to themselves.

Too, the use of ornate ritual has a tendency to violate this command. A friend said one day, "I like the stateliness and formality' of a certain church. "Fine I replied, but does it call attention, or bring you face to face with the living Christ.

Charlie Bagby called in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Banton and Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Smith Friday evening.

Mrs. Grover Beasley is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Watson and girls.

Mary Ellen Wingfield, of Lynchburg, is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Bagby and attending Bible School.
